Dear Ross,

This letter is to let you know how much our medical school enjoyed working with you and the Shandon team on our recent ACGME residency program research project. The professionalism we experienced with your team was top notch. I was pleasantly surprised at how often you tested expectations and results to make sure your delivery was consistently meeting our needs. I've rarely experienced such focus and attention to detail from consultants, and looking out for our budget too. The end results were exactly what we wanted, you delivered. We couldn't be more pleased!

I rarely write these letters to vendors or consultants. However, when someone goes far beyond expectations like you did, I feel it's important to acknowledge it.

If anyone needs a reference from me, please have them call.

Sincerely,

Steven R. Wilson
